

KCAI's inclement weather and emergency closing information 2019 – 2020

It is the policy of the Kansas City Art Institute that during regular seasonal inclement weather that does not pose an imminent travel risk, classes will be held as scheduled. In rare circumstances, if conditions are determined to be unsafe, campus leadership may choose to close campus for the day, delay the opening of campus or close campus early. When campus leadership determines that campus should be closed, all classes, administrative offices and programs will officially be closed including, but not limited to Continuing Education, Jannes Library and the Art Supply Store. Essential services, including security and facilities, will remain in operation during closures. The Student Living Center and Dining Center will not close due to weather.

If weather factors are unfavorable and not expected to improve, classes will be canceled for the day. If there is a good chance that conditions will be acceptable by mid-morning the opening of school will be delayed. In such delayed opening circumstances that happen on Wednesdays, major studios, including morning foundations, will begin at the time that campus is officially opened. On all other days, classes that regularly meet before the determined time for the campus to open will be canceled. All classes scheduled after the campus is officially open will meet at their regularly scheduled time.

Occasionally, classes in the later afternoon and evening are canceled or released early when bad weather conditions develop during the day.

Because students come from various locations and distances, some of which may be more seriously affected by adverse weather than others, students must, as always, exercise their judgment on whether or not it is safe to drive to the college. If you do not feel that you can safely travel to school, please communicate directly with the faculty member for the class in which you will miss.

Safety for the campus community is always our priority and timely communication will remain paramount in our efforts. If KCAI is forced to close due to inclement weather or other factors (e.g. power outages, water main breaks) students, faculty and staff will be notified in the following ways:

EMAIL

When campus is closed due to inclement weather, KCAI Campus Alerts will send an email to all students, faculty and staff with details of the closure.
